

District Reading Programs

This appendix provides detailed information about reading programs in Tennessee districts.

The appendix contains four tables:

TABLE
1

Literacy Blocks and Literacy Specialists. Table 1 displays whether districts have: a) dedicated literacy blocks (e.g., designated time each day for reading instruction), b) pacing guides or scope and sequences for the literacy block (e.g., timeline or schedule with plans on what to cover over the course of a year), c) district-wide early grades literacy basal reader/textbooks, d) district-wide sets of supplemental curriculum materials (e.g., guided or balanced reading materials, phonics programs, etc.), and e) whether the districts have a dedicated literacy coach. This information about district early reading practices was provided via survey responses to the Tennessee Department of Education's District Landscape Survey. Table 1 also lists the number of reading specialists in the 2016–17 school year, which was gathered from the Personnel Information Reporting System (PIRS).

2

Universal Screeners and Progress Monitoring Tools. Table 2 lists the universal screeners and progress monitoring tools reported by districts on the District Landscape Survey.

3

Reading Program Funding Sources. Table 3 lists sources of funding for reading programs reported by districts on the District Landscape Survey.

4

Textbooks for Grades K–3. Table 4 lists textbooks used by districts in grades K–3 and their costs. Textbook information is based on reports of district reading textbook sales from 2013 to 2016 for grades K–3. Publisher information is listed in parentheses.
