Savannah native becomes infantryman

SAVANNAH, Tenn. – Pfc. James Harville became a U.S. Army Infantryman by completing Basic and Advanced training at Fort Benning, Georgia, on Jan. 15.

During this rigorous 22-week program, Harville qualified as an infantryman for the U.S. Army. His training included capturing, destroying, and deterring enemy forces, assisting in reconnaissance, and helping mobilize troops and weaponry to support ground combat. Harville is assigned to Troop C, 1st Squadron, 278th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Clarksville.

Harville is a graduate of Hardin County High School.
