Crime Statistics Newsletter

Special points of interest:

- Beginning 2014, publications will be provided to agencies using a secured SharePoint site as opposed to CDx .

- Agencies using TnCOP should know that the Property Value Over $500 Edit is hardcoded into the Tn COP software and doesn't require a "Yes " or "No" response.

Publications CDs Replaced with SharePoint

As previously mentioned in the May 2013 newsletter, the CJIS Support Center will no longer mail out publication CDs to TIBRS reporting agencies. This change is effective next year, 2014, for the 2013 TIBRS publications. This is a direct result of the CJIS Support Center's effort to improve our efficiency and service.

All TIBRS reporting agencies will still be able to view the publications prior to public release utilizing Microsoft SharePoint, a secured web-based program. Agencies will be able to access the documents on SharePoint using a log-in and password provided by the CJIS Support Center.

More details will be provided as the 2013 publication time draws nearer. The CJIS Support Center appreciates your cooperation as we transition to this new method of publication distribution. Please feel free to contact Jackie Vandercook should you have any questions or concerns.

Property Value Over $500 Edit (For TnCOP Users Only)

One of the edits included in the Fall 2013 TIBRS changes is the addition of Property Value Over $500 which is in the property segment. Contrary to the information provided in previous newsletters, Property Value Over $500 is NOT entered by TnCOP agencies; there is not a flag in the property segment requiring a "Yes" or "No" response. Rather, the property value calculations are hard coded within the TnCOP software and Property Value Over $500 will automatically be determined by the software. Vendor agencies should contact their respective vendors with questions about this particular edit.

Be Sure to Scan! Receiving Credit for Attending TIBRS Conference

The CJIS Support Center would like to emphasize the importance of scanning your name badge in order to receive credit for attending the TIBRS conference. Many of the returning TIBRS Conference attendees are familiar with the scanning of attendee name badges to document attendance at the conference. However, there may be some first timers that are unfamiliar with the process. Each attendee will receive a name badge during registration check-in. In order to get credit for attending the conference, each individual will be responsible for getting their name badge scanned following each TIBRS Conference Training session. This is very important for RACs and/or Alt. RACs expecting to satisfy their annual 8-hour training requirement at the fall TIBRS Conference. The CJIS Support Center looks forward to another successful TIBRS Conference.
