G 9

It was an ordinary day until my friend called me and said "Hey m... I found a treasure of gold can you come over?" When I rushed over there, I seen the gold and I was shocked when my friend found some gold in his backyard. I was thrilled and happy. I was so proud of my best friend. I told him "You could be rich with of this gold dude." When I caught him at the school the next day, I asked him what are you going to do with all of that gold. He buy a new house,

My friend some of his gold too. He was my best friend out of all the friends I had. I felt so happy for him. I went to his house after school the next day and he moved in a mansion around the corner from me. I walked around the corner from my house. I seen his gigantic house. I felt really happy for him. I went inside his house and seen it. He said "Hey m... look its three floors."

The next day, he went to my house and told to take the rest of his gold. I felt so happy and told him thank you. I bought me some fresh T3. I was feeling good by the way I had all that gold.

Score Point: 3

This response reflects limited proficiency in narrative writing skills. The writer attempts to tell a story about a friend finding gold in the backyard. Although the story progresses sequentially, the repetition of key ideas adds little development to the response. In addition, there are numerous usage errors.
