AN ACT to amend Tennessee Code Annotated, Title 15, relative to Harriet Tubman Day in Tennessee.

WHEREAS, Harriet Ross Tubman was born into slavery in Bucktown, Maryland, in or around the year 1820 and later escaped slavery in 1849; and

WHEREAS, she became a "conductor" on the famed Underground Railroad leading hundreds of slaves to freedom; and

WHEREAS, countless numbers of slaves traveling the Underground Railroad through Tennessee followed the ridges and valleys of East Tennessee from Chattanooga northward towards the Cumberland Gap, often receiving shelter in locations such as the Bell-Herrin House in Washington County, the Griffiths House in Loudon County, and a secret cave in the Friendsville Community of Blount County. In Chattanooga, Tennessee, escaped slaves from Georgia and Alabama received aid from the Beck family whose property is currently part of the Chattanooga Golf and Country Club located in the Riverview/Dallas Heights area of Chattanooga north of the Tennessee River; and

WHEREAS, persons seeking freedom along the Underground Railroad through Middle Tennessee routinely followed the Cumberland River, while others traveled overland due north towards the Ohio River; and

WHEREAS, many other slaves found their way to freedom along the Underground Railroad in Tennessee traveling the Mississippi River by way of Memphis in West Tennessee, where safe haven could be found in places such as the Burkle Estate, with its secret cellar and escape route; and

WHEREAS, it is estimated that as many as 100,000 people escaped slavery on the Underground Railroad from 1810 to 1850, and of that number countless thousands began their escape in Tennessee, or passed through the state en route to freedom; and

WHEREAS, Harriet Tubman's exemplary leadership and heroic exploits along the Underground Railroad earned her the title of "Moses of Her People"; and

WHEREAS, she became an effective leader in the abolitionist movement and later served in the Civil War as a soldier, spy, nurse, scout, and cook; and

WHEREAS, in addition to her efforts to end slavery, Harriet Tubman was a noted advocate of equality under the law for women, as demonstrated by her membership in the National Federation of Afro-American Women, the National Association of Colored Women, and the New England Women's Suffrage Association; and

WHEREAS, women's groups in Tennessee have celebrated this historic woman on the date of her death for many years, honoring her contributions both to society and women's rights; and

WHEREAS, Harriet Tubman continued to fight for dignity, rights, opportunity, and justice on behalf of all people until her death in Auburn, New York, on March 10, 1913; and

WHEREAS, the principals, teachers, and students of Caldwell Elementary School, Hardy Elementary School, and the Tommie F.
