Georgetown native enlists in Tennessee National Guard

GEORGETOWN, Tenn. – Pfc. Jaeven Willis graduated from the Army’s Basic Combat Training and the UH-60 Blackhawk Helicopter Repairer Course at Fort Eustis, Virginia, on March 20.

During this fast-paced 15-week course, Willis was trained to maintain the UH-60 Blackhawk helicopter, ensuring safety and readiness for flying missions essential to the Army’s mission. He is now assigned to D Troop, 1-230th Sustainment Brigade.

“The Tennessee National Guard has presented me with many opportunities,” said Willis. “I plan to take full advantage of the education benefits I receive as a Guardsman.”

Willis is currently a full-time student at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, and plans to use the Tennessee STRONG Act while working to complete his degree.
