

TENNESSEE STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
STANDARDS REVIEW	3.209

Timing of Standards Review

The State Board of Education shall review each set of student instructional standards on a rotating basis every six (6) years. The six (6) year period shall be calculated beginning from the date on which a particular set of standards was last approved on final reading by the Board.

The Board may choose to review a set of standards earlier than every six (6) years, but in no case shall any set of standards be reviewed more than six (6) years from the last time a set of standards was approved on final reading by the Board, unless by a 2/3rds vote of all Board members entitled to vote, the Board approves an extension of the review process for up to one (1) additional year.

The Board, in consultation with the Department of Education, shall ensure that the review process for each set of standards is a thorough and rigorous process. The Board and the Department of Education shall ensure that all standards are of the highest quality and in the best interest of the students of this State.

Any proposed change or addition to an educational standard shall be posted for public review on the State Board's website and submitted to the members of the education committees of the State House of Representatives and the Senate at least sixty (60) days before the State Board meeting during which final adoption of the proposed standard is to be considered.¹
