That's C-A-R-T-E-R, L-A-W-R-E-N-C-E. I'd like for him to take a moment to say a few words to you. MR. LAWRENCE: Thank you, Cody, and thanks to all of you for being so gracious as I was going around meeting all of you earlier. To reiterate what I said, first, I apologize I don't have business cards to give you in case you need to reach me, but I can promise you that Cody would come find me immediately if you were to reach out to me. She's really good at coming and finding me, bringing concerns, amongst other issues. I am really happy to be in this position, happy to be working with great folks across all the boards and commissions, and really looking forward to getting to know all of you, getting to understand all the Commission's concerns and help you out however best I can. I put them on the official rulemaking forms and then there's some answers to questions that have to be addressed from the Governor's office and from the Joint Governor Operations Committee. If there is any discussion as to the answers I have prepared, of course I am willing to change those if you think that they are not sufficient, but if they are sufficient, like I said, we can go ahead and start the rulemaking process for that. This might not exactly affect your industry, but when I did ask does it affect my Alarm Board, does it affect Private Protective Services, is it going to affect the Locksmith Program, is it going to affect your Private Investigation Program, I don't know the answer to that, so that's why I am bringing that to you today. If you can look at this, this is from a member of IASIR and it is from Bruce Hulme, he represents the private investigators on the L-9 IASIR, and it is concerning robots. I just wanted to briefly let you just look over that. They have it says that they have already started using robots in different areas, especially in the area of security. | Page 77 1 aware that there is one company that is a security 2 company that's using the robots. For instance, if 3 you had a junkyard way out in the country somewhere, 4 you could have a robot there instead of maybe a 5 person or dogs and you could be sitting at home with 6 your remote control that has so many different 7 sensors, and you wouldn't need an individual to be 8 guarding that perhaps. 9 What it would do to the PI industry, I 10 don't know, other than maybe surveillance. Even 11 that, I don't know how that would go. 12 CHAIRPERSON LANE: Depends on the cost, 13 I'm sure. 14 MS. VEST: Oh, yeah. But what would you 15 use it for? 16 CHAIRPERSON LANE: In private 17 investigating? Like you say, surveillance. 18 Stationary surveillance would be the only thing I can 19 think of. 20 MS. VEST: I am going to let you take a 21 look at that and, if you would, I'd like to be able 22 to maybe address this at the next meeting a little 23 bit so you can kind of give me a direction that I 24 should be going in or do I even need to be looking at 25 this for private investigation. | Page 79 1 Have you violated that person's privacy? I just 2 don't think that's something we are going to get 3 into, but I do think it's something we need to watch 4 for as federal regulation is concerned, and I'm not 5 sure of any state regulations that have come down 6 yet. But if you do hear of any for the robots and 7 for the drones, please let me know and I'll do the 8 investigation on that and bring it back to you. 9 DR. RITCH: I believe these are designed, 10 right now at least, in the near term, for indoor use 11 only. 12 MS. VEST: Yes, sir. 13 DR. RITCH: And so it's interesting. I'm 14 reading it with great interest. It appears to me it 15 would be a useful technology. You would be able to 16 get sick and take a day off of work. Anyway, I 17 appreciate 18 MS. VEST: Yes, sir, thank you, but they 19 will still need someone to operate them. 20 DR. RITCH: That's true. That's true. 21 MS. VEST: It's the direction we might be 22 going into. So if they do go out and do some 23 surveillance, for instance, and you do have somebody 24 operating it, does that person have to be a private 25 investigator because it's going to pull the |

BROWN: Is this something like with the drones, everybody's buying them and using them and I get phone calls all the time wanting me to do surveillance can they do surveillance with the drone, I tell them "no." MS. VEST: Well, I don't know. You say if they can do surveillance if they can use a drone what law says I couldn't go buy one and fly it over your house? MR. BROWN: You can, but if you are using KR. BROWN: You can, but if you are using it for surveillance and stuff like that the FAA licenses these things now, people are not aware of that. MS. VEST: Right, but the FAA, they are saying it can't be over I think, if it goes over 500 feet in the air, it has to be you have to be a pilot. But that's not really what's happening with the drones. Your drones are being purchased by every Tom, Dick, and Harry or every child that's out there and I do not know of any federal regulations yet on that. I know the IASIR was speaking of that because of the privacy. Just that simple, you buy one and it flies over this house and here's this individual out there nude bathing in the nude. | Page 80 1 information off the robot and give it to who? 2 DR. RITCH: I got you. That's something 3 I had not thought about. 4 MS. VEST: That is something we want to 5 look at perhaps in the future. 6 CHAIRPERSON LANE: Back to the traffic 7 cams. 8 DR. RITCH: It's an interesting dilemma. 9 MS. VEST: All right. And I think the 10 next thing with the I don't have anything else for 11 the Commission myself. 12 CHAIRPERSON LANE: Did anyone sign up for 13 the continuing education participation forum? 14 MS. VEST: No, ma'am. 15 CHAIRPERSON LANE: Okay. There being no 16 further business, I'll call for a motion to adjourn 17 this March 31, 2017, meeting. 18 DR.
